Every man has his own destiny. We know that throughout our lives there are particular moments that make us understand the way forward that will help us grow.

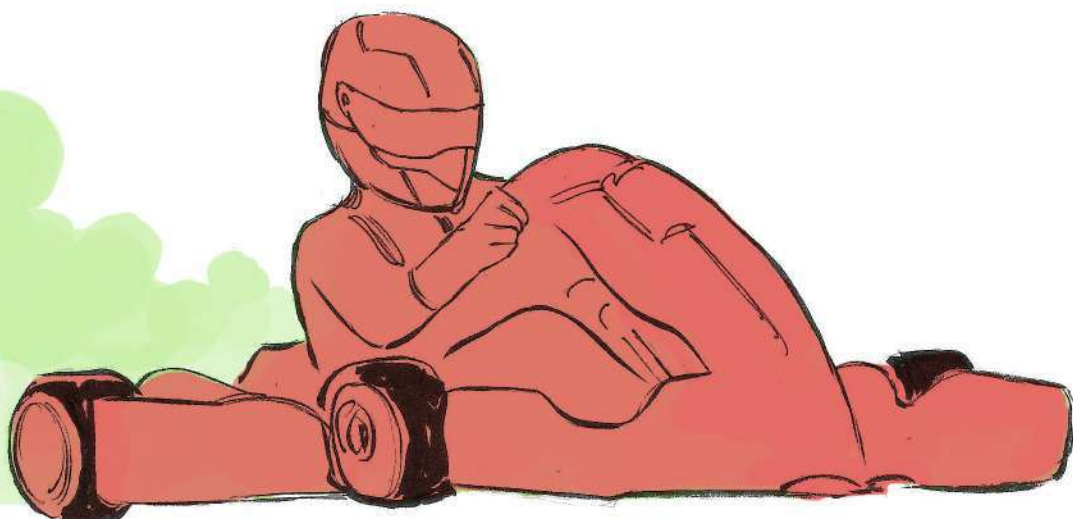

In a small town near Bologna in Italy, Nazardi was born, destined for great things he did not yet know.

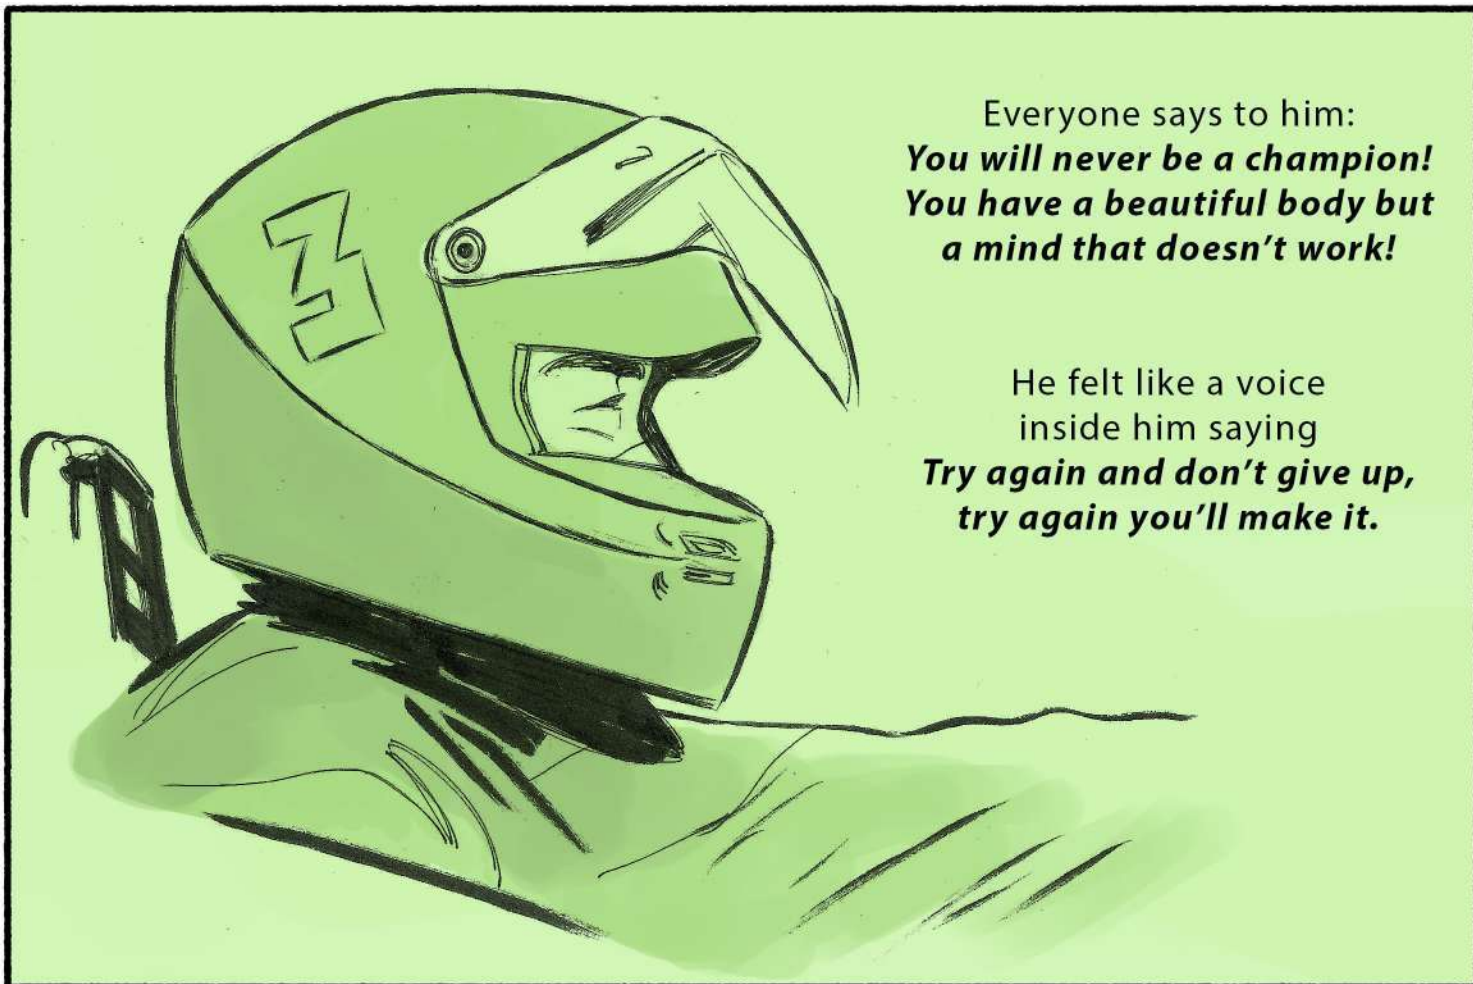

His mother said to him:

Alex, always be committed to the things you do, you never know what life could offer you, don't give up in the face of difficulties.

From an early age, his father passed on his passion for cars, took him to races and taught him to drive them. He always repeated to him: I wonder if one day you will be able to become a great champion. Alex is brave, he doesn't fear danger and speed doesn't scare him but he doesn't know how to manage his emotions and for this reason he never manages to win a race.

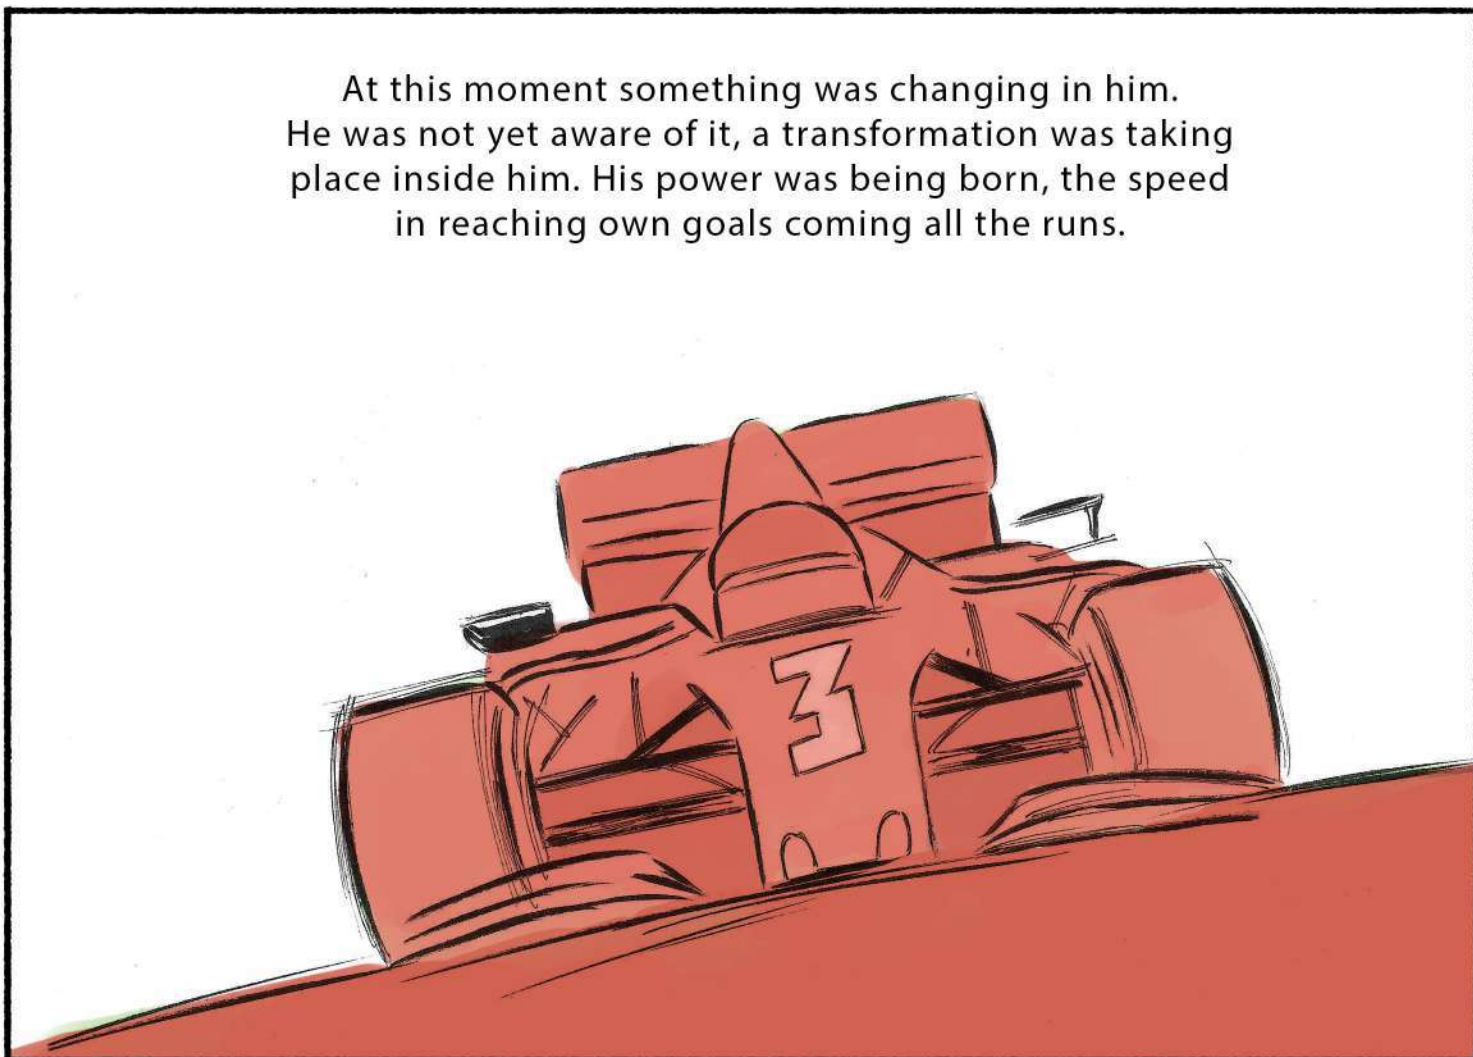

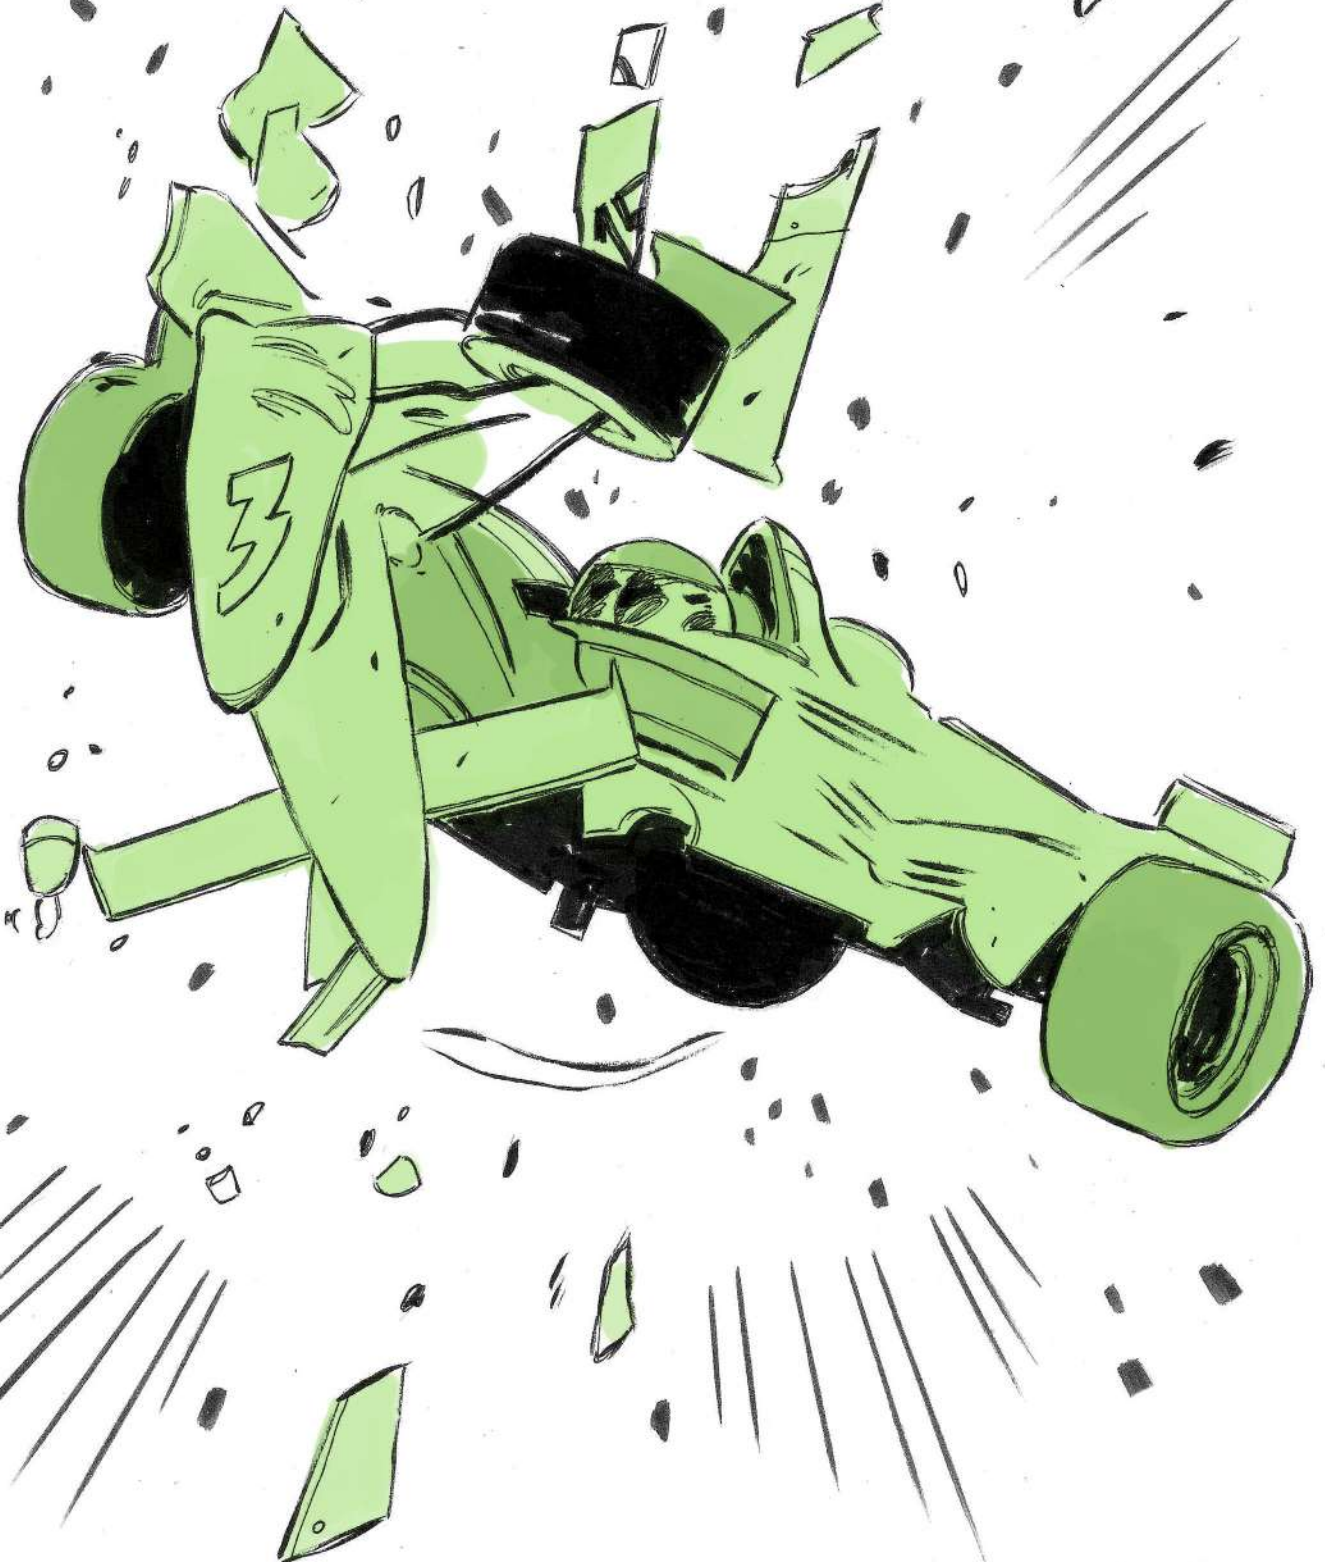

Everyone says to him:
You will never be a champion!
You have a beautiful body but a mind that doesn't work!

He felt like a voice
inside him saying Try again and don't give up,
try again you'll make it.

At this moment something was changing in him.
He was not yet aware of it, a transformation was taking place inside him. His power was being born, the speed in reaching own goals coming all the runs.

Just at the moment of maximum happiness and success, fate plays a bad joke on him, an accident ruins his body until it becomes immobile.

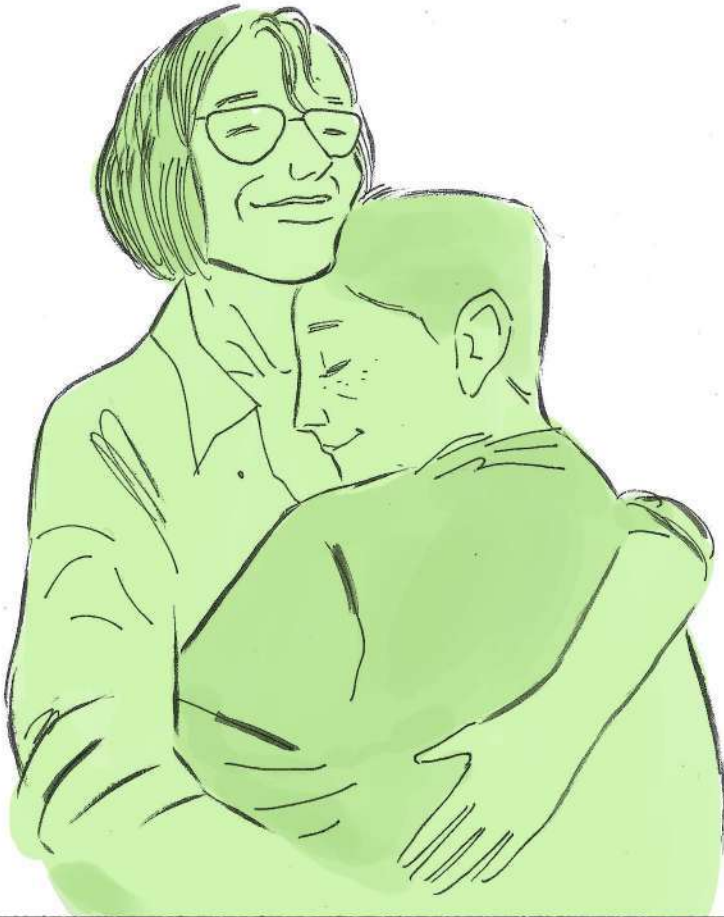

After this event he found himself facing a crossroads.

Cry and throw himself down demoralizing or use the super power to move forward to recover quickly and continue his life.

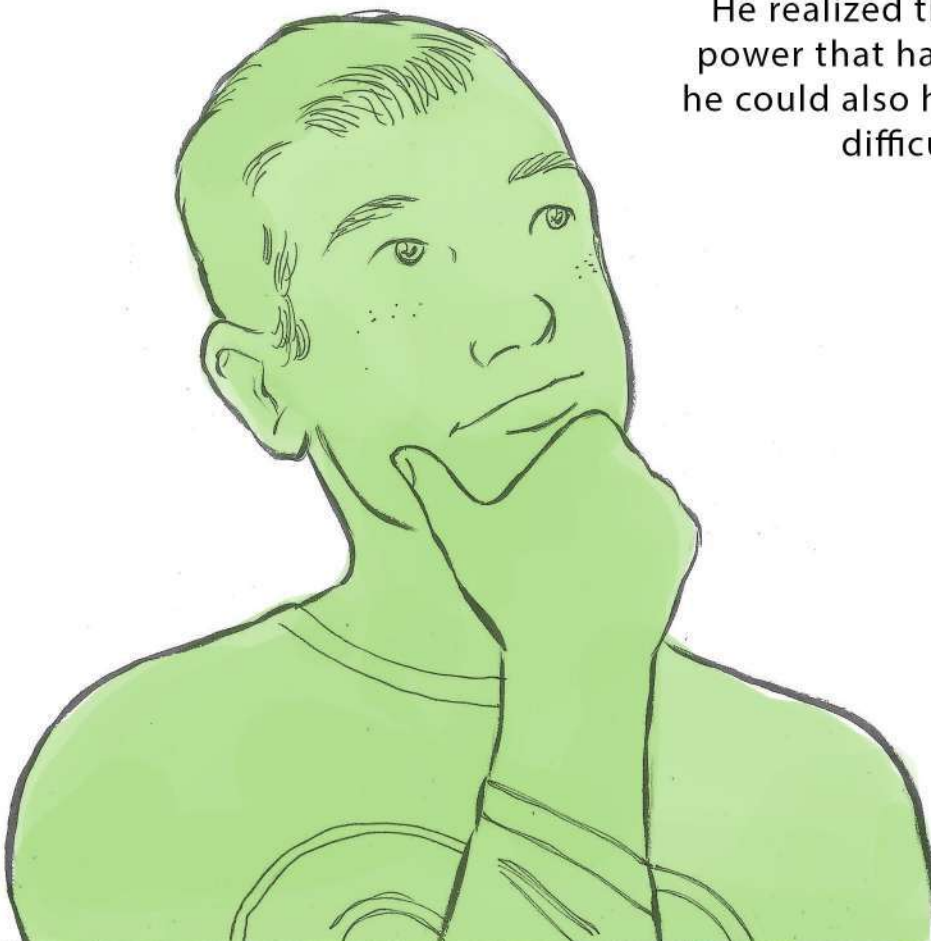

He remebered his mother's word.

Don't give up in faces of difficulties.

He realized that with his power that had saved him he could also help others in difficulty.

Like a superhero.

His example helps hundreds of disabled people to make the most of their residual abilities and get their lives back in hand.

Alex only realizes that he has conquered everything in his life when he sees the people he is helping reborn.
