It's night and Whisper is sleeping in his bed.

Suddenly he hears a sound calling "Help".

HELP!

It's curious. Whisper can't hear sounds and voices.

Where are you going? It's late!
his mother ask to him with sign language.

Whisper is hearing inside a voice calling HELP.
And in a moment he knows the right thing to do.

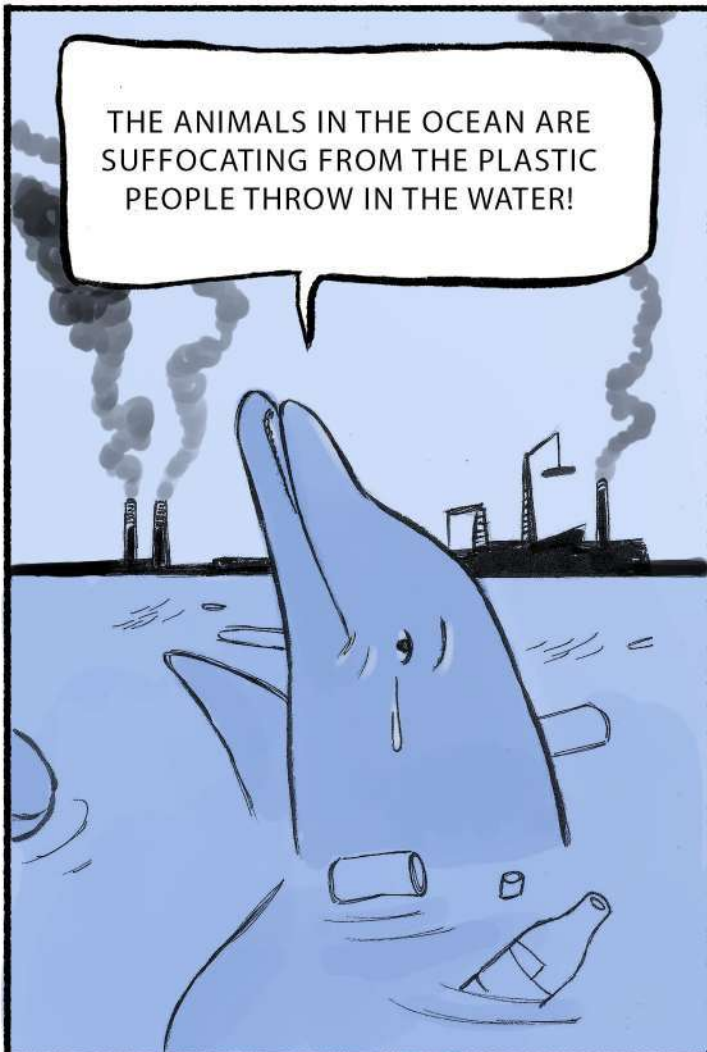

"I have to go, mom."

The sound comes from the ocean and he gets up and starts to follow the sound.

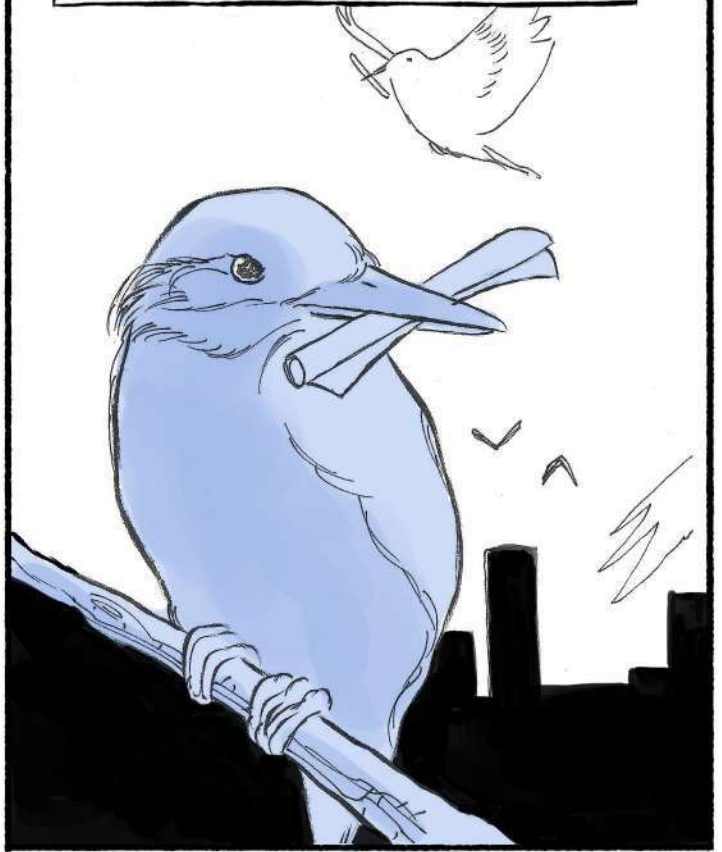

He sees a dolphin crying in the water and he asks what is the problem.

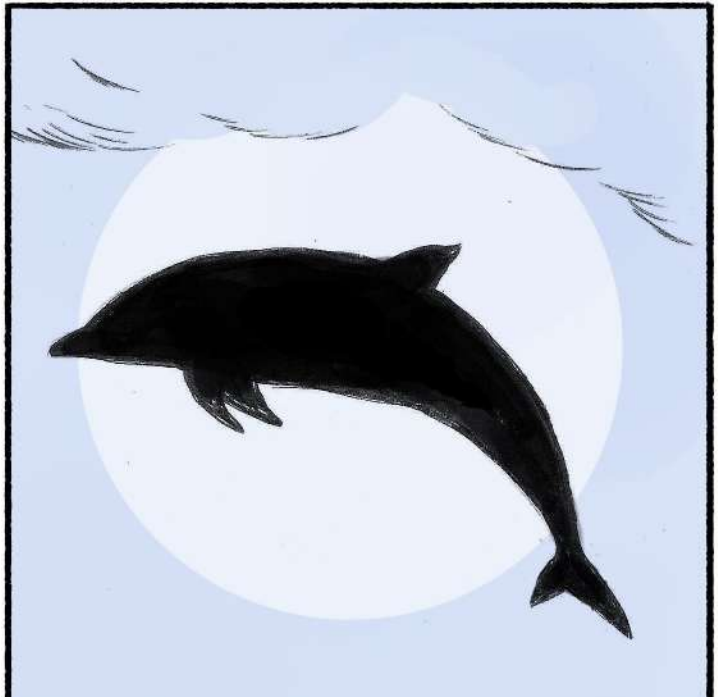

Realizing the gravity of the situation, he rushes back and writes letters to the closest cities around the forest and the ocean.

He gives the letters to the birds to deliver them.

The people start organizing a clean up action to rid the ocean of the plastic.

The story ends with a clean ocean and happy dolphin sounds echoing in the distance.
