RECRUITMENT INFORMATION SHEET

Are you interested in developing your level of intercultural sensitivity?

UNA Exchange together with BeDiverse is delivering a first stage training course for youth workers (anyone who works with young people aged 13-30, in a paid, voluntary, full or part-time position) to equip them with the necessary knowledge, understanding and skills to be able to break beyond the constructs of culture being intrinsically linked to nationality. This will be achieved through successive implementation of the following project objectives:

- develop understanding of multitude of different cultural differences held within Europe, from international – local – small groups – individual.
- learn to recognise that nothing defines us specifically. We are made up of so many aspects of different identities. We have more in common than we think.
- break down stereotypes related to nations, aesthetics and religion by exploring our own identifying aspects and those within the areas we live and work.
- develop a deeper sense of European citizenship by moving away from the focus of nation states defining culture to recognising that we are one Europe, even one world.
- consider creating a new type of 'intercultural evening' to be undertaken during E+ events.

The training course is strongly based on experiential learning (learning by doing) and non-formal education, with adequate time allocated for debriefing and reflection throughout the whole program. It will take place over one week, 6 days of training with one afternoon 'free'. It will be an intense programme, so applicants must be available for the entire duration.

The prospective participants (32 in total) should:

- Be youth workers, leader's coordinators, facilitators and trainers from active NGOs or public bodies that have mission and objectives that are related to young people.
