WHAT IS “PLANET BEYOND BOUNDARIES” ABOUT?

The climate crisis and the rapid loss of biodiversity call for a social-political change in mindset and action as well as a fundamental change in the way our economies work. Our vision is a ‘good life for all’ within the planetary boundaries[1], with the aim of achieving a fair distribution of global prosperity.

The training course „Planet beyond boundaries: Navigating youth projects in times of transformation“ wants to raise awareness to the challenges connected to the breached boundaries of our planet for young people and youth work. Together, we would like to explore planetary boundaries, create a common understanding of sustainability and develop creative ideas to engage young people facing socio-ecological challenges.

Objectives of the training:

- exploring planetary boundaries and their implications for sustainability and youth work
- sharing best practices and tools for integrating sustainability topics into youth projects
- developing creative approaches to engage young people in socio-ecological transformation
- building a network of trainers, youth workers, and youth leaders in the field of social-ecological transformation including an opportunity to further engage as trainers in future youth projects

WHO CAN PARTICIPATE?

This training course is designed for trainers, youth workers, and youth leaders who

- already gained experience in the context of non-formal education.
- are motivated in exploring innovative methods and in developing practical tools to inspire young people towards transformative action.
- have an interest to shape future youth projects that address socio-ecological challenges.
- live in one of the following Erasmus+ Youth Programme countries: Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Croatia, Czechia, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Iceland, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Latvia, Lithuania, North Macedonia, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Malta, Serbia, Slovenia, Spain, Slovakia, Sweden, Switzerland, or Türkiye.
- are fluent in English.

By engaging in this course, participants will gain knowledge, skills and resources to navigate socio-ecological topics and get the opportunity to further engage as trainers in youth projects.
